The Hird mentality

Newtown and Chilwell Cricket Club prides itself on the quality of speakers it has been able to attract to recent President's Dinners.

And this year was no exception, except that it was.

We've never had an Anzac Day Medal winner before; even though David Schwarz and Billy Brownless have addressed our club, we've never had a premiership medallion winner before, or a Norm Smith Medallist, or a Brownlow Medallist.

So thank you James Hird for not just coming, but making sure the night was a stunning success, the finest way to top off the tireless work of all the President's men and women, and particularly those in the teams that won on the weekend.

According to Ainsie, a man who chooses his words as carefully as he looks after our money, the feedback from Saturday had three powerful messages.

1. What a great club we have.
2. What an impressive guy our president is.
3. And what a great night the 105 or so people who attended had with James being so open, honest and humble.

James accepted questions from the floor with great diplomacy.

Then we saw the wonderful blurring of the difference between the Hird mentality and the herd mentality when James agreed to have his photo taken after his talk beneath our honour boards.

People beat James to that end of the room and someone wondered out loud if they queue up 20 deep to get their photos taken with Caro. No of course they don't, you idiot.

For those who didn't get to see it, James, Morgo's Territory and some beaten up old blue Saab made it on to the Channel 7 news on Sunday.

James spoke EXCLUSIVELY to Channel 7 about his plans for the future.

Whoopy do, we'd heard it all the night before.

The Saab also spoke exclusively to Channel 7 about its plans ... a much-needed oil change and fixing up the wonky airbag.

The Territory was more taciturn, but according to Channel 7's usually reliable saucers, apparently one of the nice dipping ones prepared by Clare on Saturday night, it intends to remain a live-in cricket club repository for some time.

What should have also made the news, at least the sport's wrap, was the First XI's stunning win over Geelong West at Stinton.

The visitors were travelling nicely enough early on but Maherie's cunning mix of fizzers and floppers changed that before big Cam put the boot in, even if the first time it was in the wrong spot.

Another bit of cunning that, the old no-ball run-out, and when it was followed by two more wickets, one with a bouncer that was on its way to the bulls-eye as the bat just managed to get in the way, everyone was celebrating a thing called a team hat-trick.

Speaking of putting the boot in, a certain hard-working Director of Cricket who was watching the Second XI would have like to have planted his size nines on a few backsides ... defeat snatched from the jaws of victory, and then some.

The Third XI lost a close one, but the rest of the sides won, and won well.

Specs reckons his Sixth XI played one of their best games of the season.

Good man, Speclahan – in a club full of good people, not the least the latest president as we saw as he rolled from crisis to crisis on Saturday while trying to set things up for this eponymous dinner.

If that bloody scoreboard slipped into the river and disappeared for ever, would anybody care?

Something named in honour of the great servant David Barnes should never stuff up ... ever ... let alone on a regular basis.

Perhaps a decent cricket scoreboard should be the club's next major project.

That's off the field, on the field, we know all about those major project's there.

For that we need the Hird mentality, going that little bit further than the players at the others club.

As James said, at that level, we know everyone can play, it's the truly dedicated and driven ones, the people who find some a deep inner strength they might not even know they had in the first place, that have the ultimate success.

Time to badge up boys!

In the New Year of 2014 we want all NCCC shirts
to have the logo on the shirt.

The club will cover the cost for ALL players

Congrats to Cam Alford and partner Laura who had their first child at
