Get along and support the Flying Fifths

And so we come to the last Saturday in March. Probably not as famous or fabulous as the last one in September, that is unless you've managed to qualify for the grand final of your cricket competition.

It's a special feeling, a piquancy you can't always put a finger on because there just so much involved. Sure you've won plenty of games throughout the summer, and a semi-final, but you still really haven't achieved anything. Then there's extra pressure, the greater anticipation on the morning as you get out the whites, double, then triple check your kit to make sure you've got everything, and jump into the car to be there right on time, even a bit early, just in case. The appearance of an umpire, hopefully two, reminds you all those lbw's from over the summer will now be given – both ways.

There will be just one Newtown and Chilwell team feeling, doing and enjoying all of the above – Morgo's 5ths.

Our Fourths went down valiantly to South Barwon last weekend. Well done to Frank and the boys on another good season.

The Fifths were also playing against South Barwon, at Eastern Park Number 4, aka the Sahara.

South Barwon won the toss and batted first, as you always do in finals. They were soon in strife, Ratters rattling the stumps, and Jimmy holding a Olympic gold medal winning diving catch off Marcel. The judges on the sidelines all reckoned a 10. Brett thought it was all staged. Whatever, it was out 4-30 odd.

There was a solid recovery, a couple of partnerships before Tommy Levick produced the spell that showed he had worked out the lines and lengths to bowl on a wicket of eccentric bounce ... Any wicket actually. Aim at those three wooden things. As Brian Tonker Taylor, the wonderful former England and Essex wicketkeeper loved to say: "Bowling plan is we bowl straight – they miss, we hit."

Ratters came back to bowl straight and get rid of their top-scorer, then Greenie, yes Andrew Green got a wicket – we give out some social awards far too early - and with overs to go on day one, the target was 192.

There was another target, bat through to stumps, one poor old Specs just failed to meet.

Day two, Greenie tried to get it all over in half an hour and holed out, but not before playing the sort of shots that only a Mitchell Johnson or Adam Gilchrist or an Andrew Green should/could attempt.

Morgo mixed his usual aggression with some steady defence, Stevie Lewis decided just to hang about and see what happened.

What happened was Morgo producing a handsome half-century, followed by Bretto, who found the field placements much to his liking. Wayne Hovey will be a different kettle of lawn mowers, if you'll forgive the mangled metaphor, this weekend.

Lewie ended up 30-odd not out and a very handy little innings it was. Rolling nicely into form at the right time. It will be needed.

This week it is Grovedale, the ancient rival, at verdant Elderslie. Another part of the piquancy of playing in finals is being watched and supported to the echo by the rest of your club, even the members who think they know better than the XI out there busting their guts for the Two Blues.

Get along to Elderslie, be vocal, be supportive.
