Welcome to the club, Darren Fleet by Warwick Hadfield

"I refuse to join any club that would have me." – Groucho Marx*.

It's the club no sensible cricketer wants to have any part of, but then, fate steps in, missed it by that much, welcome to the 99 Club.

Last Saturday it accepted a new member, the reluctant Darren Fleet, as the GCA Men's Second XI sought to chase down East Belmont's hefty 296.

It was an innings to astonish, Horatius at the bridge. The top order – apart from him – had gone, 78 of his runs involved signals from the umpire, 18 fours, one six.

Then the signal from the umpire that, in some parts, continued the astonishment. The blurry phone footage and the balcony choir suggested bump ball. With or without the technology of the time, arguments like this go on forever.

A bit fuzzy – your call!

There are English folk abed, Gideon Haigh's puce dim-bulbs mostly, still babbling about Don Bradman and the English second slip, Jack Ikin, in the days of inconclusive sepia at the 'Gabba. All, just as with last Saturday, to no avail, of course.

The umpire said not out, Bradman went on to score 187 and, a year later in 1948, Ikin to be part of the 99 club, bowled by the invincible Ray Lindwall. Unlike Bradman, and when 187 seemed more than possible, there was no reprieve for Fleetie. So, as the cheaper seats churlishly pointed out, "great 50 Fleetie". The man himself was philosophical, Schrodinger's Cat philosophical for which he is qualified not by a life in quantum physics, but one in cricket. "To be honest, I am disappointed with myself," he said. "It was a full toss from an off-spinner and when you're on 99 and you get a full toss you should be hitting it for four, not nicking it. So mixed emotions. It was great to know that at 45, I can still bat like that, in fact it was probably the best I have ever batted."

There is some balm, Darren does have previous centuries, in fact one on the same ground against the same opponent, 18 years ago – 100 not out and keen club historians know what eventuated from that moment.

There were a couple of other 50's to savour from last weekend, despite being in losing causes.

After Fleetie's departure, Jorden Lewis decided he didn't want to be on the end of an unfavourable result in his 200th game for the club, striking 75 not out, 11 fours, two sixes.

Welcome to the club, Darren Fleet by Warwick Hadfield

"It was great to see Jorden and Arch batting at the end," Darren said. "Jorden just waited for his and was batting beautifully and at one stage we might even have thought about winning, or at least saving the game. Unfortunately, Archie nicked one and he was just as gutted as I was after the game, me as much about losing as anything else."

At Winter Reserve, Noah Guida continued his progress into genuine First XI all-rounder with a maiden half-century. The skipper, Dylan Hodge, had watched with admiration his young charge's efforts on a curate's egg pitch...the previous week, 19 not out when the rains came, to be turned into 56, not quite enough to give the First XI a win despite the braces of wickets to Tyson Windus and Paddy McKenna.

Noah Guida in action at Winter Reserve.

The previous week, Tom Meredith got within reach of a half-century, and Hodgie, who reads pitches as well as he does games of cricket and young players, toughed it out for 27 runs.

Archie Bain ducks on in the Ones.

The Third and Fourth XI matches ended in draws, both sides fighting desperately to the appointed shut off time. Tom Levick and Brendan Twaddle did the marathon spell thing in the Thirds and a run-out involving the skipper took his team to within one wicket of six points. The Fourth also needed just one more wicket after fine bowling by Tom Agar and Riley Norton.

In the Fifties, there was no play, but Adam Patching did reach 250 games by dint of the draw, and assuaging the disappointment for those who might have turned out at Lake Belmont Common to watch him at his explosive best, his highlights package from a certain grand final is up on Facebook.

<https://www.facebook.com/TwoBlues/videos/184673771382201>

So too, is James Purcell's highlights reel, a tad shorter, as following a late team adjustment, he remains on 199 games.

- Groucho Marx attended a cricket match at Lord's between the MCC and Cambridge University in 1954. After two hours of play, his English companion asked him how he was enjoying the game.

"It's great, when does it start?" Marx replied adding: "What a wonderful cure for insomnia. If you can't sleep here, you really need an analyst ... even the men in the tradesmen's coats are trying not to watch it. Umpires, eh?"

The Two Blues congratulate Tom Kiddle, Tom Patterson, Ted Bain and Lachlan Norton on their selection in the Geelong Under 18 side. The future is arriving fast.

Brilliant effort Madden.

Angus Hastie goes elite by Warwick Hadfield

From the moment he could crawl Angus Hastie has been readying himself for the life of an elite athlete.

It is a development Newtown and Chilwell Cricket Club folk have been privileged to watch for most of his 18 years: the first signs of his capacity to see ball, get ball, were on display in the fabled summer of 2005-2006, when Darren Fleet led the Second XI to the miracle premiership.

A key part of that campaign was old man Hastie, Ian, Ecky, all big front foot down the wicket daring opponents to try to get him out or bowling his looping in-swingers for leg-side stumpings.

And forever in the changerooms, all dimples, curls and chuckles, young Angus, not yet walking, but managing a hybrid crawl.

Chuck an old, worn six-stitcher any near him, and he would intercept it.

Keen eyes recognised advanced motor skills.

A pity, in some peoples' view, Stephen Wells wasn't in the change rooms back then, but, in 2023, Angus was interviewed by Geelong, one of the many AFL clubs which liked his see ball, get ball, and then kick it back the other way, approach.

But St Kilda's not a bad place. Someone has to be a hero to outshine Barry Breen, forever, with his behind, remembered for outshining Kevin "Cowboy" Neale's five goals in the 1966 grand final.

Tommy Hafey always reckoned with the side he had then, Allan Jeans should have won more flags than that one.

He didn't and none of his successors have managed it either, even with sides as good as the ones of which Jeans had charge.

None of this should phase Angus, whose hybrid crawl has grown into a fine upright walk, tall enough to be considered a backman in the AFL, good enough to go at pick 33.

Equally importantly, he has a well-measured self-belief, always confident, but never cocky. Good families make sure of that.

Already St Kilda, handing out Saints paraphernalia willy nilly to the Hastie household, reckons it's got a new, good family, as well as a new good player.

The Hastie Family.

"Coming in at 190cm, the dashing and ambitious defender Hastie has thrived for the Geelong Falcons since making the decision to focus full-time on his football as opposed to a promising cricket career," said the Saints official statement on the matter.

"The rebounding back man ranked first amongst all general defenders for intercept possessions in the Coates League this season, with his willingness to take the game on earning plenty of commendation in the lead-up to this year's AFL Draft."

The promising cricket career bit evokes a wince or two in Two Blue parts. He was sharp as a bowler and would have got considerably sharper as he grew into his man's body.

And he hit straight beautifully, with a liking for the short boundary at Shaw Oval.

But in the way of so many talented cricketers, which should make those insistent on two-day cricket think a bit more about it, he has chosen football above cricket.

Though NCCC had already bidden him farewell once before: he was part of the Geelong Cricket Club set-up before focussing on football.

"It was something that I really enjoyed," he said, noting that as well as cricket and football, he had also showed promise at basketball."

"I think all three sports that I played were a main priority for me, there wasn't really one that was higher than the other."

"In cricket, there were some state pathways through there and I was enjoying my time playing at Geelong Cricket Club."

"It was definitely a lot of fun and I still enjoy it to this day, but I'm glad I chose to focus on footy this year because of how it's all panned out."

"I couldn't be happier."

"Geelong is a great place to get around any sport."

"They get around you and it's a really good community environment to get stuck in if you are willing to put in the work to try and go to the next level, whether that's AFL, playing cricket for Australia or basketball over in America, you're going to have people around you to support you."

There's every sign, having proven already he can match it with matured bodied types playing senior football with Geelong West, Angus will go from AFL graduand to graduate.

So that will make Two Blues people doubly proud of him, first for that achievement, then for making the celebrated list of players from Newtown and Chilwell Cricket Club who have played VFL/AFL football, 32 at last count in Barnso's Bible, more than any other cricket club extant.

The list goes back to the turn of last century with the Rankins. Teddy took a five-for for NCCC before becoming the first Geelong player to 100 games.

He also made Geelong's Team of the Century.

It will be fascinating to watch that list extend further with the addition of one A. Hastie, maybe next season, maybe the one after.

Dates with destiny can be of the blind variety. You're never sure what might turn up.

But in those days on the floor of the Queens Park change rooms, there was just something about Angus Hastie, getting in and out between the legs of the players, but always getting the ball, that said elite sport was in his destiny.

It was just a case of which sport and what he makes of it from here.

The Newtown and Cricket Club will be watching what's next: proud of Angus Hastie and the small part it has played in helping him fulfil his dream.

It's a life lesson, too – you have to crawl before you walk.

N&CCC Players to play AFL/VFL - 32

The Newtown and Chilwell Cricket Club could probably claim a place in the Guinness Book of Records for having featured the most VFL/AFL football players on its playing lists. And not just in modern times. This marvelous record goes right back to the early days of the club.

Among the most modern, try these: Paul Chapman, David Johnson, Steve Johnson, Tom Hawkins, Josh Hunt, James Kelly, Andrew Mackie. A few years back, Paul Brown, who played 84 games for Geelong between 1990 and 1988, spent a successful year as a wicket keeper batsman in the 2nds, playing in a grand final.

Gareth Andrews, who played for both Geelong and Richmond, where he won a premiership, took 8-61 on his debut for the club. He also, via Sam Newman, gave us one of the most colourful descriptions of a footballer. Said Sam after watching Gareth in action: He is to kicking what Sir Robert Helpman is to oxy-welding. Sorry Gareth, couldn't resist that. And as far as we're concerned, you were to bowling was Sir Robert Helpman was to ballet.

Then there is the incomparable Greg Wells on whom we believe Sam Newman to be completely silent, but we could be corrected on that. Goose played four games for Geelong, but a heck of a lot more for "this club, our club".

And the equally incomparable Battler, Russell Mitchell – two games for Geelong (player no. 855), a lifetime and a life membership at Newtown. A man of great wit and wisdom, it has been said of Russell that standing next to him in the slips cordon, you can learn more about life than you might doing three years of philosophy at one of Australia's best universities. Battler also holds the distinction of wearing no. 57 – the highest worn by a GFC player!

In 2013 Chris Lynch retired from his exulted role as an AFL Commissioner, he played with the Cats as well as being a six time Two Blue 1st XI premiership player.

Back in the sepia times just after the turn of the 19th century, Ted Rankin – as well as taking a five-for for us – was the first Geelong player to reach 100 games. He also made it into the Catters' Team of the Century. He and his son Cliff, who played 153 games for Geelong, both turned out for Newtown.

FIRST XI lost to East Belmont at Winter Reserve

Umpires: André Conradie & Chris McWaters

Scorer: Mark Turnley

East Belmont won the toss and bowled.

A resilient 45 from Newtown & Chilwell coach Tom Meredith underpinned the Two Blues 7-149 in a weather-impacted game at Winter Reserve against the Lions. Meredith's 76-ball knock comprised six boundaries as he was one of the few visitors to withstand the red-ball mastery of East Belmont paceman Dylan Moroney.

Moroney was on fire early knocking over century makers of the previous week, Pat (0) and Ronnie (10) McKenna, along with elegant opener Tyson Windus (17), before returning to claim the scalp of dangerous Two Blues captain Dylan Hodge (27). Constantly under threat, all-rounder Noah Guida dug in for an unbeaten 91-ball 19 to ensure the Combine can advance its score upon resumption next week. Lions' spinner James McMahon maintained the pressure throughout his 10-over spell finishing with 1-13.

A superbly paced unbeaten 62 from Luke Inglis was pivotal to East Belmont's success over Newtown and Chilwell after the Two Blues set the Lions a challenging 199 for victory at Winter Reserve.

The Combine resumed at 7-149 from the previous week and looked to Noah Guida's expansive 56 to drive the tally to 198 before the impressive Dylan Moroney (5-57) and Jack Jenkins (3-48) put an end to the Two Blues' productive rearguard action.

"He batted really well and looked like he might take the game away from us at one stage," Inglis said of Guida's imposing 142-ball knock that comprised seven boundaries.

East Belmont's response began positively with a 72-run opening stand providing the ideal platform as Danny Hegarty (53) and recent Country Victoria selection Shane McNamara (31) effectively repelled the new-ball.

However, when occasional keeper Tyson Windus (2-35) revealed the breadth of his skill set to spin out both openers – and Lachlan Norton's run out of Will Hiser split Pat McKenna's (2-39) removal of Josh Lacey (21) and Locky Inglis – the Lions were haemorrhaging at 5-143.

"Danny and Shane really took the game on but full credit to Newtown and Chilwell in the way they bowled," Inglis said.

"They did well to rein it back in and draw it out, they were looking to make the game go as long as they could."

The arrival at the crease of two-time Jack Sing medallist Sean O'Neill was accompanied by initial caution before Inglis and O'Neill began to work through the gears on the way to constructing an unbroken and, ultimately, matchwinning 68-run stand. "I think we felt we were in control and just needed to keep going the way we were going," Inglis said.

"We felt that if we had a couple of good overs, we knew we could go from there and have a crack at the win. "So, a couple of good overs here and there made the difference."

O'Neill finished with an unbeaten 22 from a 30-ball innings that included a towering six, while Inglis went at a strike rate of 65 in a measured knock peppered with nine boundaries.

"Sean's obviously a very good player and he's got the runs on the board, he's been in that situation a few times before," Inglis said.

"For me it was about adapting to the situation, remembering just to play what was in front of me."

Let the Man be Hird

It's 10 years since this sold-out
President's Dinner.

It made the Channel 7 news,
Foxsports News, The Herald
Sun and the Geelong Advertiser.

It was so popular people had to be turned away, all of which really irritated the AFL, which is another good reason to celebrate the anniversary.

Then President Phil Morgan, James Hird and
Warwick Hadfield at the President's dinner

BWCC 1sts C grade round 8 tied with Queenscliff at Queenscliff

IT'S A TIE!

"You mean a draw," Alan McGilvray, the doyen of cricketer commentators, said to the air steward as his plane headed from Brisbane back to Sydney 63 years.

"No sir, it's a tie."

McGilvray wasn't immediately convinced, and his bemusement was in great part because ties just didn't happen, well not in Test cricket until December, 1960. So much so that, having decided the Test between Richie Benaud's Australians and Frank Worrell's West Indians at the 'Gabbra was heading for a draw, he had decided to leave early, jumped on the next flight and had asked the air steward for a score update from the pilot..

As cricket has broken up into its three formats, there have been ties since, not the least the second tied Test in India in 1986, when the umpire raised his finger and shouted "I am in history" as he gave out Maninder Singh, lbw to Greg Matthews.

There might have been a fair bit of shouting to go with a little bit of Two Blues history when, down in the borough last Sunday, Belinda Milverton began the last over of Susan Meaney's First XI Two Blues and Jessica Fletcher's Queenscliff, no one had any idea which way this game would go.

With the six balls bowled, the Two Blues had taken one wicket but needed another, while Queenscliff, needing six runs to win, had managed just five.

"It was a thriller," said Two Blues coach Phil Twaddle. "There were near runouts, the ball was going everywhere. We had our chances, a few dropped catches, but yeah in the end it's a tie.

"The really pleasing thing is that we are getting better all time. Susan Meaney bowled beautifully and she is really learning the game of cricket, while also applying many of things she brings to us from all her years of experience in elite netball."

Batting first, after the early loss of Lauren Marino, Bianca Duff and Susan Meaney, both with 30s, turned things around and after their allotted 20, the Two Blues were 4-97.

The skipper then got the early breakthroughs, but Queenscliff had depth, their own captain, batting at six and scoring 28. With the opener, Riley Shapter, carrying her bat, that was enough, well not quite enough but the gist is there to get.

In the Two Blues' Second XI Barwon Women's Cricket Competition game on Shaw Oval Steph Wynd produced the heroics as NCCC was chasing after Bannockburn scored 92.

Chasing and in trouble after the dismissals of Keely Franklin and Leah Irving, their only disturbance of the scorers ... forcing them to note their departure and attach a zero to it. Carly White began the rebuild with a vice-captain's knock and when she left for 12, Steph, with assistance from Kirsty Mellross, carried on.

Steph made 31 not out, Kirsty an invaluable 14, the win achieved just four wickets down.

Good Sports program celebrates 25 years

BY JAMES TAYLOR

THE Alcohol and Drug Foundation (ADF) is celebrating 25 years of the Good Sports program and the significant contribution it has made in building healthier and safer community sporting clubs across Australia, including in the Geelong region.

More than 11,500 clubs across 120 sporting codes are part of Good Sports, reaching more than three million Australians.

The program supports clubs to prevent and reduce alcohol-related harms such as drink driving, and address issues around tobacco, vaping, illicit drugs, and mental health.

To mark the anniversary, the ADF has released the "Celebrating 25 Years of Good Sports" report highlighting the effects of the program, including:

- reduction in risky drinking at participating clubs by 37 per cent, with a 42 per cent reduction in alcohol-related harms
- An 8 per cent reduction in the odds of drink-driving compared with non-Good Sports clubs, for each season a club is in the program
- Increased confidence by up to 89 per cent of participating clubs in managing illegal drug issues
- 70 per cent increased awareness of mental health issues at Good Sports clubs, with a 75 per cent increase in support capabilities
- Less reliance on alcohol sponsorship, and
- An average 9 per cent increase in club members and 17 per cent increase in non-players (such as volunteers) at participating clubs.

The impact of Good Sports locally include at the Geelong Junior Marlins Water Polo Club, which was named the 2022 Good Sports Junior Club of the Year for its efforts in creating a safe place for juniors to play sport by focusing on issues such as spectator behaviour, nutrition, and having a smoke-free environment.

The Marlins also provide information on help and support services for people who may be experiencing mental health issues or other health issues.

"This milestone is a wonderful opportunity to reflect on the positive impacts of the Good Sports program and to give a massive shout out to the participating clubs and volunteers who are so dedicated to creating and maintaining healthy and family-friendly club environments," ADF chief executive officer Dr Erin Lalor said.

"While local sport clubs can be places where alcohol and other drug-related harms occur, Good Sports demonstrates that they can be the opposite, and role model healthy, positive behaviours.

"The further a club progresses through the Good Sports program, the greater the reduction in members drinking at risky levels, the less likely patrons and players report driving home after drinking, and the more knowledge and confidence they have to deal with mental health or illicit drug issues."

All local sports clubs are encouraged to join the free Good Sports program.
